INDIAN PUEBLO CULTURAL CENTER ANNOUNCES GROUNDBREAKING FOR MAKERSPACE FACILITY SEPT. 21

MULTI-AGENCY FINANCIAL PARTNERSHIP HELPS TO CREATE MULTI-USE COMMERCIAL KITCHEN TO SUPPORT PUEBLO ENTREPRENEURS, ARTISANS, SMALL FARMERS

Albuquerque, NM (Sept. 19, 2022)—The Indian Pueblo Cultural Center Campus is pleased to announce that it is holding a groundbreaking ceremony for its latest endeavor – a makerspace facility that will be the first structure of the Entrepreneur Complex - on Wednesday, Sept. 21 from 1 – 2:30 p.m. at the Indian Pueblo Cultural Center’s campus, 2401 12th Street NW in the heart of Albuquerque.

The 7,500 square-foot makerspace will house a commercial kitchen, providing a centralized space where entrepreneurs can develop their food businesses, and a produce wash and processing line that can accommodate farmers’ needs for a place to safely prepare their produce for distribution. The entire three-acre complex will be located on the northwest end of the IPCC campus.

“This space will be an important, centralized hub for education and business development for both Indigenous and local entrepreneurs in the region,” said IPCC President/CEO Mike Canfield. “We are excited to support these small business owners reach their goals for success while also doing our part to contribute to the local food system.”

The total project cost of the complex is $8 million with approximately $5 million raised to date. Grants and contributions from private, local, tribal, state, and federal organizations are the primary funding sources thus far with a capital campaign kicking off later this year.

The Makerspace facility is part of a phased approach to the entire complex that will include a hoop house, an expanded farm and garden space, and incorporate two other existing buildings. The exterior architectural design of the building will have a contemporary, southwestern-pueblo aesthetic to complement the surrounding IPCC campus. Development and construction are expected to be complete within two years.

“This makerspace, with a food and farm focus, is an outstanding example of the Indian Pueblo Cultural Center’s mission: to perpetuate Pueblo culture along with creating opportunities for economic development amongst Pueblo and local communities,” said IPCC/IPMI COO Monique Fragua. “We know there is already a solid local entrepreneur ecosystem, and we want to contribute to that. We’re building this complex in such a way to support ‘next phase’ growth for these small businesses so that they can maintain their success and expand in a way that makes sense for them.”

About the Indian Pueblo Cultural Center:
