

NEW MEXICO MAGAZINE

5 Things To Do This Weekend: IPCC's Nativity Sets

November 23, 2022

www.newmexicomagazine.org/blog/post/five-things-to-do-this-weekend-thanksgiving-2022/

Readership: 36,373 (Print and Digital)

The screenshot shows a web article from New Mexico Magazine. At the top is the magazine's logo and navigation icons. Below the logo is a festive image of wrapped gifts and a Christmas tree branch. The main headline reads "Five Things to Do This Weekend". The sub-headline lists activities: "Shop local for the holidays, get moving with a Turkey Trot, celebrate at Indian Pueblo Cultural Center, check in with Santa in Las Vegas, and party on the mountain at Ski Apache." The article is dated "Nov. 22, 2022" and written by "MARIA MANUELA". A red "SHARE" button is visible. Below the text is a photograph of several colorful Pueblo nativity sets. A small caption below the photo reads: "A nativity set by Ernest Sandoz Cochran (left) for Santa Clara Pueblo by Amy G. Johnson (right) for Santa Fe Pueblo. Photo courtesy of the Indian Pueblo Cultural Center." Below the photo is a large number "3" followed by the heading "Learn about Pueblo nativity sets." and a paragraph: "Get a peek into the cultural center's permanent collection with its curator of collections, Amy G. Johnson, during her Saturday morning virtual lecture on Pueblo-made nativity sets. She will show examples from the collection and discuss the sets' similarities to storytellers, as well as the master ceramicists who created them."

