

NEW MEXICO'S 19 PUEBLOS

Each Pueblo is a sovereign nation with its own government, customs, and traditions—living communities that continue to carry forward the languages, stories, and values passed through generations. Since time immemorial, Pueblo people have been stewards of these lands. Today, Pueblo communities are located throughout New Mexico, with homelands, migration histories, and longwithstanding trade networks deeply connected to ancestral Puebloan sites such as Chaco Canyon, Mesa Verde, and Bandelier.

We invite you to engage with this living heritage with respect and curiosity, and to join us in honoring the enduring strength, knowledge, and cultural richness of Pueblo people—past, present, and future.
